hi people!

we (multimedia institute & monteparadiso hacklab) are organising a hacker meeting in pula this summer. event will be supported by freedom software law center ( <http://www.softwarefreedom.org/>). we'd like to offer possibility to eastern-european hackers to join the meeting, so we agreed with eben moglen that SFLC will provide us with 25000$ to cover the expenses of people that otherwise couldn't afford to come. the money is coming from big companies as IBM and some foundations that sponsor the process of GNU GPL 3 development.
the idea of making pula permanent home of thk was discussed more then once; many pros and cons emerged. however, i feel that, if we're not going to do it this year, another thk is not going to happen, and i see this as a possibility to 'ressurrect' thk, reaching more people from eastern europe this time.
here's a short summary of a project; please read it and expess your opinion. should it be thk 2.0 or not?

Hacking Summer

Over the first five days of September we plan to organize a hacker meeting at the Monteparadiso Hacklab in Pula, Croatia. The meeting should offer an opportunity for free software, hacker culture and hacktivist communities to get and hack together on software development, GNU GPLv3 debate, technological hacks, cyber-rights and all other issues related to information and technological freedoms and political activism.

Objectives

While extending on the experiences of self-organized transhack meetings, which have become a rallying site for hacktivists from all over the Western and Mediterranean Europe, Near and Middle East, we wish additionally to reach out towards free software communities all over the Eastern Europe and create an opportunity to exchange experiences and knowledge on how to leapfrog the limitations the free software and information freedoms face in Eastern Europe and to contribute to fostering strong bonds and networks among free software, hacker and geek communities across Europe.

The hacking summer event will take place on the premises of former military complex Karlo Rojc, which has served as a venue for one of the previous transhack meetings. As our plan is to develop, over the next two-three years, facilities in the region of Istria - Monteparadiso Hacklab in Pula and Labinary in Labin - to serve as permanent, year over facilities for free software development, research, marathons and hacker, with this event we want to make initial steps towards creating and building up resources necessary at the hacking summer location.

Program

hacking summer is open for everyone to participate and program is open for all participants to organize. All hacking-related and hacking-unrelated topics can become a debate, a skill-sharing session, a workshop or a lecture.

To address issues of GNU GPL deliberation process, free software development and advocacy in Eastern Europe and across Europe

Monteparadiso Hacklab, Multimedia Institute and Software Freedom Law

Center will organize more formal sessions related to those issues.

There will be four such sessions concentrated over the last two days of the hacking summer event:

1. GNU GPL v 3 - future challenges for free software

2. Free Software development in Eastern Europe: Development project in civil societies, SMEs and government

3. Building Free Software alliances in Eastern Europe

4. Networking Free Software communities across Europe

Participants

The event venue - Karlo Rojc complex - will offer plenty of free space for those who wish to set up their camping gear and basic facilities for those who will stay at the premises. Those who wish to be accommodated elsewhere in Pula, will be able to find plenty of different accommodation options in the town. There will be no registration fees nor fees for those who will be organizing.

Center wish to cover expenses of up to 40 participants from Eastern Europe for who would not be able to cover their own expenses.

Yuupiiii.
So we need to plan free week.

(& personally maybe a vacation combination at Verudela resort at the same time.)
We should bare in our minds that from 2.to 3.of october a Linux Conference is held at Portoroz, Slovenia; and IBM Linux Forum (Umag,Rovinj, Cro) at about september the 23rd. Oracle Linux Conference is to follow IBMs, at the same place.
CARNet Users` Conference (CUC) will be at 20.-22. of november at Dubrovnik.

At the moment no event of "penguin" will interfere with thk2.....
